ERA 2007 aims to showcase the latest ageing-related research from a range of disciplines. Previous ERA conferences have been organised by the Australasian Centre on Ageing at the University of Queensland and held in Brisbane annually since 2002.

Last year the conference moved away from Queensland for the very first time and was successfully held in Sydney. Carrying on with the tradition, this year the conference is being held in Adelaide and future years will see the conference move around Australia.

ERA 2007 is part of the emerging researchers initiative of the ARC/NHMRC Research Network in Ageing Well.

BENEFITS OF PARTICIPATING IN ERA 2007

- Being part of network of students and professionals from within the ageing sector
- Listening to the latest in emerging ageing research
- Opportunities for students to meet prospective employers from government, non government and private sectors
- Opportunities for employers to meet the best new researcher talent and observing them in action

ERA VOLUNTEERS

Students are invited to participate in the planning of the conference and assisting at the conference. For further information visit the ERA 2007 web site at www.ageingwell.edu.au/era2007 or email rogerlevi@adam.com.au
